

One page 4 of the SPRING issue of the VOICE, the Letter from the Editor had an error that needs to be corrected.

The article states:

“Please note several Board members are seeking leadership nominations and you do not have to be in attendance at the Convention to be elected. You DO have to be present to run for the Board. You can run from the floor, but you DO have to be in attendance.”

The first statement stating that you do not have to be in attendance at the Convention to be elected is incorrect. Attendance is required to be nominated and elected to any board position.

We apologize for any confusion and will make a retraction in the next issue of the magazine.

Thank you
